There is not enough room under the seat to store a helmet and the fuel tank is small holding only 6 liters of fuel. A little small for this size motor in my opinion. The centre stand is difficult to use and my bike did not come with a user manual. Another disappointment I found in owning a Sachs Amici is the availability of spare parts.

Vin man's instructions are great. Just one thing to add. If you are a smaller build you may need to pull the bike backwards a wheel length or two to get the momentum going before holding the centre stand down with your right foot. The Sachs Amici centre stand is difficult to operate but I have seen someone that weighs 50kg master this technique.
